My dear students

This year has been quite different for all of us. I totally understand that you were almost done with all the exams except a few and then CBSE called off all remaining examinations due to the Covid outbreak. Do not get worried, everything will be fine and we will come out successful as always even from this crisis. Till then, I suggest that you hold yourself, remain composed and prepare and be ready for the remaining papers. Observe social distancing and continue to use and make the most of it by preparing for the next paper and impending competitive exams because you may not get much time in between the rest of the papers. As always Hansraj stands by you for any other help required during these trying times. Stay safe, stay calm
